

A Note from the team PWF

This is the third volume of Poetry Without Fear. The first two volumes were received very well by our esteemed readers. This proves that such a platform is necessary. Nobody can deny the need to take poetry to all readers without diluting its quality. In selecting poems we have always considered the reader's point of view. In book reviews the positive things are highlighted. We always give priority to the young voices along with renowned faces. We also share academic essays on poetry and poets in every issue. The ISSN, we believe, will invite the attention of the academic circles to the articles published here.

Temsula Ao is a major Indian creative writer in English from the North East and her demise is indeed a great loss. Dr. Dikshita Bhuyan has written an article on her poetry from a feminist point of view. We remember the renowned writer with love and respect.
